

WHAT IS CLAIMED IS:

1. A disposable diaper comprising:

a liquid-permeable topsheet, a liquid-impermeable backsheet and a liquid-absorbent core disposed therebetween so as to a first waist region, a second waist region and a crotch region extending therebetween;

front surfaces in proximity of transversely opposite side edges of said first waist region including a release zone;

said first waist region being provided on said transversely opposite side edges thereof with a pair of extensions;

said extensions being provided on front surfaces thereof with hook members adapted to be engaged with loop members to cooperate with said hook members; said hook member having adhesive zones formed on front surfaces thereof; and said extensions being folded back inwardly of said diaper and peelably bonded to said release zones by said adhesive zones.

2. A disposable diaper according to Claim 1, wherein said loop members are provided on a rear surface of the second waist region.

3. A disposable diaper according to Claim 1, wherein said loop members are peelably engaged with the front surfaces of said hook members on front surfaces of said loop members, said loop members being peelably bonded to said release zones by adhesive zones formed on rear surfaces of said loop members.

4. A disposable diaper according to Claim 1, wherein said adhesive zones are formed by adhesive partially coating the front surfaces of said hook members.

5. A disposable diaper according to Claim 1, wherein said release zones are made of plastic sheets.

6. A disposable diaper according to Claim 1, wherein said extensions are formed of tapes fixed to the transversely opposite side edges of said first waist regions.

7. A disposable diaper according to Claim 1, wherein said first and second waist region are front and rear waist regions, respectively.
